UKCCL2 Orienteering Coach: what is covered in the training?

During the 2 days of the training course there will be 4 outside practical coaching sessions interspersed with discussions on the following topics:

- Roles & responsibilities of a coach
- Planning a series of linked coaching sessions: tips and practical sessions on the course
- Safety considerations whilst coaching orienteering
- Delivering & evaluating a series of linked sessions: including warm-up/cool-down ideas, making sessions fun, using relevant exercises so that orienteering techniques are improved
- Physical training and mental coaching for orienteering club coaches

After the 2-day training course learner coaches will complete some written tasks electronically and plan a session to deliver to their peers on the 3rd day.

Prior to the 3rd day the written tasks are marked and the assessor watches coaches deliver an orienteering technique coaching session of approx. 20 mins. The coach and assessor have a discussion after the session and agree an action plan for the next phase.

Following the 3rd day:

- Coaches deliver a series of 4 orienteering coaching sessions to a group (of any age/experience) & one physical training session and discuss how these sessions went with a mentor.
- There are 2 other written tasks to complete

Within 18 months of starting the training the final assessment takes place.

An assessor watches a technical orienteering coaching session of an hour before the coach is qualified. This can be a group session involving other trainee coaches from the course and/or a group of club members.

Trainee coaches are provided with a set of personal resources and the coach educator/tutor is available to give support & advice throughout the period of training.

After Qualification

BOK is intending to expand its training provision for adults and juniors interested in orienteering. As a newly qualified coach, BOK members would be expected to help deliver these programmes.

Where and When is the Course?

BOK is hosting the course on the weekend 24th/25th March 2018 and Saturday 21st April 2018 at Mendip Outdoor Pursuits Centre, Churchill, BS25 5PQ. The final assessment will be arranged once students have completed the required tasks.

How much does the Level 2 coaching orienteering course cost?
